I remember when it first came up, my staff would say, well how do we explain this when constituents call and ask us? Well, call the elections office. The elections office said, well they don't really know how to explain what it is. And this going to be confusing to the people. What's wrong with the first-past-the-post that's worked for hundreds and hundreds of years? We're trying to mimic the Australians and do what they do in ranked choice. And I think we're going backwards to being so, quote, sophisticated, by making it ranked choice rather than the normal way of doing it. For those reasons, Mr. Speaker, I hope we vote it down again this year, like we did previously, and that it doesn't rise again. Thank you."

"Thank you, Chair. I rise with reservations and I guess a question to my colleagues because of my reservation. In our committee hearing, Mr. Speaker, this was a very, very worthy cause, planting of trees and gathering foliage where there's barrenness and not water is very laudable. The difficulty is, and the heavy lift that this SPRB implies, they need $500 million. And I'm thinking, that's a heavy lift for a non-profit. So, I speak as an appeal to those who know this group and know that, are their pockets that deep or their connectivity that well? Otherwise, we shouldn't pass something and disappoint them by getting their expectations up and then pulling the rug from underneath them. So, with that, Mr. Speaker, I appeal to anybody who knows this group and can fill me in. And I know they, well we leave it to the Budget and Finance and they do all the numbers. Well, I think we have a responsibility to do our numbers before we pass it on to them. For those reasons, Mr. Speaker, with reservations, hoping enlightenment from my colleagues. Thank you."

"Reservations as well. I think the Representative from Hawaii Kai raised a lot of concerns raised in the Judiciary Committee meeting yesterday. And I would agree that we need to, we cannot leave it up to the Department of Budget and Finance to make these decisions that ultimately impact affordable housing. Because SPRBs allow us to, will take away from the private activity bond ceiling that is needed to make affordable housing happen and help to leverage our low-income housing tax credits. So, it is consequential, and we have to take a closer look at each and every request that comes in. Thank you, very much."
